THEATRICAL NEWS.

BARLOW MINSTRELS.

—The attraction at the Grand Opera House, on September 8, will be J. A. Coburn's popular and always reliable Barlow Minstrels. The past few seasons have demonstrated positively that under his management this company is fast becoming one of the best in minstrelsy, free from any of the objectionable features or coarse jokes often heard in attractions of less exacting managers, and which oftentimes causes one to hesitate before purchasing seats for a mother, sister, wife or sweetheart when "Minstrel Company" appears in the local theatre advertisement. This attraction has an entirely new program each year, new singers and with a corps of fun-makers, who realize clearly that their work must be clean and free from songs or jokes of a questionable nature, the first offense in every case being their last with their manager.
Prices—25c, 35c and 50.
The advance seat sale will be from this date on at Varden's Drug Store.

THE ARMY MANEUVERS

Final Review Will Take Place at Wellington, Va., September 10.

War Department Decides That Militia When Participating in Field Instructions With Regulars Are Not in the U. S. Service.

Headquarters Camp, Gainesville, Va., Aug. 31.—Gen. Corbin Tuesday fixed September 10 as the date for holding the final review of the 25,000 troops to participate in the annual maneuvers of the army, and Wellington, Va., as the place for holding the review.
This decision was reached after the broad, sloping acres adjoining the railroad track at Wellington had been inspected by the general, accompanied by Col. Knight, a member of his staff.
The inspection trip was made in an automobile and the headquarters of Gen.
Grant at Manassas was visited before the return was made to headquarters camp.

The review is to be a spectacular feature of the maneuvers and great preparations are making by the Southern railway to transport large crowds from Washington and the east.

The inspection trip to division camp
No. 1 was entirely satisfactory. Gen.
Corbin is laying special emphasis on the lesson to be learned by the militiamen regarding proper camp sanitation, the detachment and entrainment of troops, and the proper laying out of the tented fields. The trackage facilities provided at each of the camps furnish an excellent opportunity for the study of transportation facilities, and this object lesson is not to be overlooked as a part of the benefit of the maneuvers.

Tuesday troops of cavalry and companies of infantry were everywhere present in the maneuver zone. These practice marches are being made a part of the daily program of the two camps. In the meantime the staff and brigade officers of both Gens. Grant and Bell are familiarizing themselves with the roads and lay of the country for strategic purposes.

Washington, Aug. 31.—The war department, on the request of Gen. Corbin, commanding the troops at maneuvers in Virginia, has rendered an opinion in the matter of jurisdiction over the national guard organizations, holding that the militia troops when participating in the encampment maneuvers and field instruction with troops of the regular army are not in the service of the United States within the meaning of the militia act and that discipline in the militia is to be enforced through state authority.

ONE MAN WAS KILLED.

Attempt to Enforce Blue Laws Caused a Riot in Allegheny, Pa.

Pittsburg, Aug. 31.—The crusade carried on by the Allegheny County Sabbath Observance association for the past three weeks to enforce the blue laws of 1794 resulted in riot and murder in Allegheny Tuesday night.
The man who was killed was identified at midnight as Harry D. Knox, driver of an ice wagon.

The enforcement of the old laws which prohibit the sale on Sunday of ice, soda water, candy, cigars and every other article of merchandise called a luxury, has aroused intense feeling throughout the county and many threats have been made against the prosecutors. Tuesday night Chief Detective for the Association P. T. Gamble and two of his force, Nelson C. and Harry W. Starkey, were on trial for perjury, the charge being that they had secured the conviction of a storekeeper who proved that his store had not been opened for business on Sunday. About 1,000 persons had gathered about the aldermen's office and when the hearing was concluded the mob made a rush for the detective.
Gamble was knocked down and rendered unconscious for a time, while the other detectives were roughly handled. Some time later the detectives left the office under escort of the aldermen's constables and the crowd renewed hostilities.

A SHOOTING AFFRAY.

Floyd Hilton Killed Will and Flem Bray and Wounded Their Father.

Jellico, Tenn., Aug. 31.—While on their way home from attending a circus, Floyd Hilton, of Halsey, Ky., shot and killed Will and Flem Bray, of Mud-creek, Ky., and dangerously wounded their father, when about a mile from here. Hilton claims that during an altercation the two Bray boys threw him from their wagon and the shooting followed.

Believe the Strike Is Ended.

Kansas City, Aug. 31.—So far as Kansas City is concerned the packers believe the strike is ended. Many of the extra watchmen employed when the strike was ordered have been discharged. Half the strikers went back to work.

Suffering Among Mormon Colonists.

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 31.—Reports have reached here telling of considerable suffering among the Mormon colonists of Chihuahua, Mex., this year on account of the prevailing drouth. Only half and third crops have been produced.

President Mitchell's Return.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 31.—President John Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers of America, reached Indianapolis Tuesday afternoon after an absence in Europe of nearly three months.

THE MARATHON RACE.

It Was Won By Thomas J. Hicks, of Cambridge, Mass.

St. Louis, Aug. 31.—The Olympic Marathon race, the third foot race contest of the kind ever held and the first ever held on American soil, participated in by 31 men classed among the fleetest runners of the world, was won Tuesday by Thomas J. Hicks, of Cambridge, Mass., who is the first American to win this event, celebrated in the revival of Olympic games. Albert J. Corey, of Chicago, a native born Frenchman, crossed the goal line second, and A. L. Newton, of New York, crossed third. The distance of the race was 40 kilometres, equal to 24 miles and 1,500 yards.

This distance was run by Hicks in the officially announced time of 3 hours, 28 minutes and 53 seconds; Corey, 3 hours 34 minutes and 16 seconds; Newton, 3 hours 47 minutes and 33 seconds.

The first Olympic Marathon race was held at Athens, Greece, in 1896 and won by Loues, a Greek, in 2 hours and 55 minutes; the second Olympic Marathon race was held in Paris in 1900, and won by Teate, of France, in 2 hours and 59 minutes. The winner of Tuesday's race received a cup presented by President Francis, of the exposition, and an Olympic championship gold medal, the second a silver medal and the third a medal of bronze.

Fred Lorg, of New York city, was the first runner to cross the goal line, but he was immediately disqualified on the charge that he had ridden about three miles in an automobile in traversing the course over the country roads. Lorg readily admitted that he had done so because of physical exhaustion for a time.

There were thousands of spectators in the stadium amphitheater to witness the start. The threatening day had cleared and the sun shone brightly. Forty runners had been entered in the race but only 31 started, of whom 16 were Americans, ten Greeks, two Kafirs, one Cuban, one Frenchman and one man from South Africa.

The starter's pistol cracked at 3:03 o'clock and Hicks sprang into the lead with the field following him at his heels. The racers ran five laps on the stadium track, and then, passing through a gate, struck out on the country road course, which was designated by red flags showing the way. In entering the country road course Hicks had fallen back with six men ahead.
The course led over hills and through dales innumerable, being pronounced one of the most uphill and down hill courses ever traveled by athletes in events and the roads were deep in dust.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE.

A Delegate Will Call On the President at Oyster Bay.

Oyster Bay, L. I., Aug. 31.—Information was received at the executive offices here Tuesday night of the arrival in New York Tuesday of G. Francotte, a delegate to the peace conference, which is to be held in September at the St. Louis exposition. He is said to be the bearer of credentials from the king of Belgium to President Roosevelt requesting the latter to use his good offices in the restoration of peace between Russia and Japan.

A TRIPLE TRAGEDY.

One White Man and Two Negroes Were Shot to Death.

Stephens, Ark., Aug. 30.—A triple tragedy occurred near Mount Holly, Union county, Tuesday, in which one white man and two Negroes were shot to death. Details are very meager, but it is said that two Negroes offered an indignity to a white woman. A mob went out on a hunt for the Negroes with the result that a white man, a stranger named Stover, together with a Negro man and woman were killed.

MOB BROKE INTO JAIL.

A Half-Witted Negro Boy Was Hanged in His Cell.

Fort Worth, Tex., Aug. 31.—Oscar Lee Tucker, a half-witted Negro boy, attempted a criminal assault on a white girl near Weimar. He was jailed promptly. Tuesday morning he was found dead, hanging to a bar of his cell. It developed that a mob broke into the jail during the early part of the night and strung the Negro up to the top of the cell.

Knights Templars Gathering.

San Francisco, Aug. 31.—Delegates and visitors to the triennial convocation of Knights Templars are arriving here on every train. Louisville, Ky., commandery No. 1, accompanied by its crack drill corps, reached here Tuesday.

Will Not Parade Labor Day.

New York, Aug. 31.—It is announced that the unions composing the Building Trades Alliance will not parade Labor day, this action being taken, the labor leaders say, with the object of avoiding the stirring up of hostile public opinion.

The Philippine Commission Sails.

San Francisco, Aug. 31.—The Pacific Mail Steamship Co.'s new steamer Manchuria sailed Tuesday for the Orient via Honolulu. She carried over 200 cabin passengers, including the members of the Philippine commission.

Army Officer Suicides.

Malibu, Aug. 31.—Fitzgerald S. Turton, second lieutenant in the 22d United States Infantry, has committed suicide on the Island of Minandano. He was appointed to the grade of second lieutenant from the ranks.

A SWEEPING ORDER.

All Butcher Workmen in the Country to Strike.

It Is Feared It May Cause a Meat Famine—The Order Affects the Men Employed in the Different Independent Plants.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—Famine in meat is declared by the strikers to be the probable result of their new move in the strike against the packers. Orders have been issued for a general strike of all butcher workmen throughout the country. They are expected to go out Thursday. The order will affect in all about 2,000 men in Chicago, and ten independent plants. The order, if observed, will also affect independent plants of large capacity in the following cities: East St. Louis, Omaha, St. Louis, Kansas City, Sioux City, New York, Milwaukee, Syracuse and hundreds of small plants throughout the country which employ from 10 to 20 men. All together, union officials assert, there will be 15,000 men to go out, and the meat supply will be seriously crippled, leaving as the only supply the output of the big packers by their non-union help. The packers say it is Leader Donnelly's aim to create a meat famine, which, he thinks, would be forced. "Donnelly is undertaking the impossible," said a representative of one of the packers.
"There is little chance of a meat famine. The independent packers, who, by their collusion with the unions, have profited much during the strike, will suffer the most."

New York, Sept. 1.—The members of the Amalgamated Association of Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen formerly employed here by the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger and the United Press Beef Cos., who expected that the negotiations in the west would lead to a peaceful settlement of the strike, were Wednesday dejected over the news from Chicago that orders for a general strike of the butchers throughout the country has been issued.

The packers here say that they have filled the places of the strikers and are killing and making deliveries as usual under police protection. The strikers say that the boycott is hurting the packers and that the bulk of the men who quit work at the abattoirs of the two companies are employed in the slaughter houses of independent firms.

Boston, Sept. 1.—No order regarding a general strike of all butcher workmen in the country has yet been received from the headquarters in Chicago of the international union by the officers of the Boston local union of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen. The officers of the local union do not think the strike will effect Boston.

East St. Louis, Ill., Sept. 1.—Twenty strike breakers and two policemen were more or less seriously injured in a riot in which about 400 strike sympathizers were engaged. The strike breakers are employed in the Swift & Armour plants.

HEAD-ON COLLISION.

Nine Persons Were Killed and 23 Others Injured in Canada.

Montreal, Sept. 1.—Nine persons were killed and 23 others injured in a head-on collision on the Grand Trunk railway near Richmond, Que., Wednesday. The trains involved were a special excursion from Montreal bound for Sherbrook and passenger train No.
5, running between Island Pond, Vt., and Montreal. The collision, it is claimed, was due to neglect of orders on the part of the train crew of the excursion train, which left Richmond without awaiting the arrival of the passenger train.

Robbers Overlooked $13,000.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Sept. 1.—The Oregon express was held up at Kemmerer, Wyo., Wednesday morning by four men, who stole a package containing $300. A package containing $13,000 was not disturbed.

BIG BATTLES FOUGHT.

Nearly Half a Million Men in the Engagement.

Result of the Fights Unknown—Reports Credit the Japanese With Having 1,200 Guns in the Vicinity of Liao Yang.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 31.—The great battle of Liao Yang, which began early Tuesday morning, raged throughout the day with increasing intensity, but up to this hour no further official details beyond the two brief telegrams given out in the afternoon have been received by the war office.

Every confidence is expressed in Gen. Kuropatkin's ability to meet the Japanese assault on ground of his own choosing, but the city is hungry awaiting news of the progress of the fight.

The Japanese forces engaged in this battle can only be estimated here, but they are believed to number 200,000 men. Gen. Kuropatkin is known to have six army corps, besides 147 squadrons of cavalry in which great confidence is reposed, bringing up the Russian total to about the same number as the Japanese have. How the armies compare with regard to artillery is not definitely known, though throughout the war the Japanese have shown great preference for this arm and skill in its use.

Reports from the front credit the Japanese with having about 1,200 guns and many mountain batteries and it is known that they recently shipped 24 heavy guns to Yinkow. Four of these guns already have been mentioned in these dispatches as being in action.

Gen. Kuropatkin, in addition to his field batteries, has a number of very heavy guns emplaced at important positions at Liao, where the Russians have been strongly fortifying for some time.

Liao Yang, Aug. 31.—A Russian correspondent supplies the following: "The historical moment has arrived and the battle of Liao Yang is in progress."

"It was not 6 o'clock Tuesday morning when the first gun was fired, but soon afterwards hundreds of cannon were thundering along our southern and eastern fronts. The center of our position is located near the famous tower of Liao Yang, about seven miles to the southeast. The fighting there was of the most desperate character, but is now going on near at the flanks. The hissing of shells is distinctly audible, and from the city it is easy to see the shells bursting."

Liao Yang, Sept. 1.—The second day's battle commenced at dawn Wednesday. The Russians made repeated bayonet advances on the road directly south of Liao Yang, where the Japanese approached from Sanguanish and Tao, shelling the positions in the Russian lines until 4 in the afternoon, when the engagement, which was general throughout the south and southeast, narrowed to the main line. The Japanese advance on the southeast was by way of the Feng-Wang-Cheng road.

Immediately in front of Chiao-fan-tun the Japanese stubbornly attempted to occupy a round topped hill, which was literally shelled by the Russian shells, making repeated attempts the entire day, where apparently it was impossible for anything to live. The cannonading continued from this point to the vicinity of Wangpaotai until Wednesday evening without apparent advantage to either side. The Japanese dropped shells within two or three miles of the railroad station and in the plain of Wentzhu mountain, which is the most important eminence around Liao Yang, but the Japanese abandoned aggression there on account of the resistance they met. There was cannon fire Tuesday night and this is expected nightly.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 1.—With the knowledge that the Russian and Japanese armies about Liao Yang are locked in a death struggle the tension in St. Petersburg Wednesday night was strained to the utmost. It is believed here that the fight can not stop short of the crushing defeat of one side or the other.

It is stated officially that the report that the railway and telegraph have been cut north of Liao Yang is untrue.

The battle of Liao Yang will probably rank as one of the great sanguinary battles of history. It is estimated by the general staff that the Japanese armies engaged number 17 divisions of 15,000 men each, or allowing for inefficients, about 240,000 men. Each division has 36 guns, and there are two independent artillery brigades of 100 guns each, making a total of about 800 guns. The estimates of Russian correspondents range from 600 to 1,000 guns per side.

In the preliminary fighting of Monday the Russians captured 200 prisoners, who have already arrived at Harbin, and report persists that they captured over 40 Japanese guns Monday. Gen. Kuropatkin's effective forces are variously estimated at from 170,000 to 200,000 men.

Russia Buys Two Steamers. Copenhagen, Sept. 1.—Russia has purchased two steamers, the Korea and the Kitalic, belonging to the Danish Russian East Asiatic Steamship Co., as auxiliary cruisers. The vessels will be attached to the Baltic squadron.

Will Take a Course in Pedagogy. Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 1.—Six Filipinos will enter the State Normal university next week to take a course in pedagogy, preparatory to returning to the Philippine Islands as teachers. The government pays their expenses.

RETAIL DRUGGISTS.

Twenty-Five Hundred Declared Guilty of Contempt of Court.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—Twenty-five hundred retail druggists in the United States were declared guilty of contempt of court by Judge Dunne, of the circuit court, Wednesday, and the National Association of Retail Druggists, of which they are members, was fined $2,000, while Thomas V. Wooten, secretary of the organization, was fined $500. The cases against five whole-sale druggists of Chicago, also charged with contempt, were continued until the fall term of court, when it will be necessary for them to take additional proof into court to purge them of the contempt charges.

The injunction under which the druggists' association was fined was secured by Isaac Platt, a retail druggist of Chicago, in November, 1902, and restrained them from interfering in any manner with the securing of supplies by Platt, who had incurred the association's displeasure, it was charged, because he would not join it.

PRINCESS' FLIGHT.

Daughter of the King of the Belgians Vanished From Bad Elstar.

Berlin, Sept. 1.—Princess Louise of Coburg, daughter of the king of the Belgians, whose relations with King-Edmund Matisich, the former lieutenant of the Austrian army, caused a great scandal in European royal circles, seven years ago, and who has since been kept under the closest restraint, has vanished from Bad Elstar, where she has been taking the cure. It is presumed that the princess is in the company of Matisich and is seeking to gain an asylum where she will be safe from recapture.

The escape of the princess was accomplished in a mysterious and romantic manner. Ladders and a swift automobile were brought into play to effect her release from the hotel, where she has been immured almost as a prisoner, and to convey her to some refuge regarding the location nothing is known.

POWDER LETS GO.

One Man Instantly Killed and Three Seriously Injured.

Punxsutawney, Pa., Sept. 1.—Eight hundred kegs of powder exploded Wednesday in the press room of the Laffin & Rand powder works, two miles east of here, instantly killing one man, seriously injuring three others, and causing costly destruction of property. The press room, which was about 40 feet square, was totally destroyed.

Leonard Blair was in the building at the time of the explosion. When his body was recovered among the ruins after the accident it was found that a part of his head had been literally blown away.

THE SLOCUM DISASTER.

Report of the Committee for the Relief of Survivors.

New York, Sept. 1.—The report of the committee for relief of survivors of the General Slocum disaster shows that 958 bodies have been recovered and that $109,543 has been collected and expended. Of 990 families who lost one or more members by the disaster, 437 received aid and provision was made for the permanent care of many of these. Twenty thousand dollars has been put aside for this purpose. One hundred and twenty men lost their entire families in the disaster and in 12 families 27 children were left orphans.

DRANK CARBOLIC ACID.

Woman Attempted Suicide in the Indianapolis Railway Station.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 1.—A woman believed to be Mrs. John Collett Pritz, of 416 Ferrine street, Dayton, O., attempted suicide in the Union railroad station Wednesday night by drinking carbolic acid. She was taken to the city hospital in a critical condition. A railroad ticket to Chicago was found among her effects.

Dan Patch Lowered the Record. Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 1.—In an exhibition mile on the state fair grounds track Dan Patch lowered the record for a half-mile track, and clipped three quarters of a second off his own best time for a half-mile track. Time 2:05 1/4.

New Philippine Gold Money. San Francisco, Sept. 1.—Over $2,000,000 of the new coinage of Philippine gold was Wednesday placed on board the United States army transport Thomas, which will sail for Manila via Honolulu Thursday.

Ten Ticket Sellers Fined. St. Louis, Sept. 1.—Ten former ticket sellers at the Philippine reservation at the World's fair pleaded guilty to charges of appropriating small sums received for tickets during a secret trial and were fined an aggregate of $558.

Withdrawn From the Conference. Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 1.—A sensational turn in the effort of the operators and miners to agree upon a wage scale developed Wednesday when all operators of the Coal Creek district withdrew from the conference.

HOLIDAY OF THE SABLE.

Ceremony Which Opens the Hunting Season Among the Gilyaks of Tartary Straits.

The sable and seal hunts each begin a new year in the calendar of the Gilyaks, who live on Sakhalin island, on the Straits of Tartary. These two years, which begin in October and April, are called the winter year and the summer year, and are opened by holiday festivals. The sable holiday goes by the name of "the prayer to the lord of the forest." Mr. Hawes, in his book entitled "In the Uttermost East," describes it.

It is a wintry scene. The snares are set on logs and branches which span the narrow streams and creeks. The first snows have fallen. The trees stand silent in the somber depths, hanging their hoary, lichen-covered branches.

Amidst the hush a shadow steals quietly across the scene. It is the sable. He goes by accustomed paths. He does not care to swim the cold water, but seeks a fallen tree or log whereon to pass. All unsuspectingly he creeps along a trunk, only to find his way blocked by a tiny barrier of sticks, arranged in the shape of a fan; nevertheless, a way, one way, is left, and that through a loop in the center. Rising on his hind legs and pushing through, he struggles, and so releases a peg hitched with a ratchet, and a bent twig at one end of the cord flies back and tightens the noose.

Many trackers are out, but each brings his first catch to one place, where due honor is then paid to the great giver of them, the lord of the forest.

It would savor of greediness, of meat without grace, to start on the important hunt of the sables, creatures whose skins are so valuable that anything may be purchased with them, without due acknowledgment to the giver. A feast is made, and pieces of roasted flesh, tobacco and other things are buried in the ground as an offering to the god.

It is necessary, lest he be not observing or be engaged elsewhere, to call the attention of Pal ni rookh to their offering, so they whisper: "Chookh! Chookh!" that is, "God, Thou God!" They do this in an undertone, lest the evil spirits should hear; for these evil spirits dwell in the swamps and the depths of the forest, and might make off with them. For this reason, and because Pal ni rookh generally walks among the mountains, the Gilyaks take the precaution of making their offering on high ground.

When the hunting season is advanced, the snare is abandoned and another method for the capture of the sable is adopted. The native sets out with his dogs, who quickly find the tracks of the little animal, and drive it up a tree. The hunter then lets fly a blunt arrow and, if skillful, stuns his prey. With fair success he may thus take seven or eight sables in a day.

SOME MIGHTY MEAN MEN.

Won't Give Up Their Car Seats Nor Their Jobs to Their Women Acquaintances.

She was a new woman, and was rather proud of the fact that she had a place in the world of business that enabled her to regard herself as being on an equality with man. But there was one thing that annoyed her, relates a Chicago paper.

"I ride downtown on the car early every morning," she said, "with a young man who lives a little farther out than I do, and I don't mind saying that he doesn't know what courtesy and gentleness are."

"What does he do?" inquired the big brother, who doesn't think very much of new women, anyway, and is consequently opposed to his sister being in the world of business.

"It isn't what he does," she replied; "it's what he doesn't do. Time and time again he has let me stand up all the way downtown, when it would seem as if the very least he could have done was to get up and offer me his seat."

"That is wrong, isn't it?" returned the big brother.

"It's contemptible selfishness, that's what it is," she answered.

"The fact that he is in possession of a seat," went on the big brother, "of course does not entitle him to it if a fellow clerk of the opposite sex happens to want it. And yet men in business will do these things. Why, I know a girl who has twice the grievance you have in that line."

"What happened to her?" she asked.

"Man there first, and refused to give up when she came along," he explained. "Give up his seat?"

"No; his job. She discovered that it would just about suit her, but the great brute of a man hadn't chivalry and courtesy enough to get up from his desk, bow politely, and say: 'Madam, permit me to offer you my job.' Most ungentlemanly, isn't it? But, do you know, I think the old-fashioned courtesy is—"

However, she did not wait to hear about that. She merely said he was a mean thing, and didn't understand what was due to a lady at all. And he himself admits that constantly changing conditions make it mighty hard to find out.

Fate of Tantalus.

Mrs. Scribbler (Impressively)—Whatever you do, never, never marry a newspaper man.

School Chum—Why not?

"I married one, and I know. Every night my husband brings home a big bundle of newspapers from all over the country, and they most drive me crazy."

"The newspapers?"

"Indeed they do. They are just crammed with the most astonishing bargains, in stores a thousand miles away."—N. Y. Weekly.

LATEST LIFE-SAVING GUN.

Improved Means of Sending a Line to a Wreck Highly Praised by Technical Men.

When, owing to fog or storm, a ship is wrecked anywhere along an inhabited coast, prompt efforts are made on shore to rescue the passengers and crew. Where a regularly-organized life-saving service exists it is customary to keep, in addition to a suitable boat, means for throwing a line to the stranded vessel. This, having been made fast to the ship and also on land, is used as a sort of railway on which a peculiar form of buoy, or a life car, is made to travel to and fro. To establish the first communication with the wreck it is customary to attach one end of the line to a light projectile that is fired from a gun. If the aim is accurate and the velocity sufficient the shot will go over and beyond the vessel and fall so as to bring the line within the grasp of the sailors. The rest of the work is comparatively easy.

One of the latest improvements in such work relates to the form of the gun. Until recently the latter has always been a muzzle loader. By degrees a breech loader is now being substituted. To get the best results the gun should be adapted to conditions of darkness, cold and wet weather, which conditions are directly opposed to the successful working of the muzzle-loading gun, with its unprotected powder charge bags, its open bore pointing skyward and closed at the lower end, forming a natural receptacle for water, and its open igniting primer and wooden carriage, which must be securely tied down to prevent recoil. Speaking of the new system, the Scientific American says:

"The improved life-saving gun is considerably less than three feet in length, and is built of steel and a special bronze alloy, which resists the action of salt air and water. The gun tapers from the breech, where the greatest strain comes, to a diameter of five inches at the muzzle. A special self-locking mechanism, at once the simplest and having the fewest working parts of any yet devised, closes the rear of the bore in such a way that any water finding its way into the gun will be instantly drawn out. The firing hammer with its safety device is actuated by a lanyard, and relies wholly on the pull of the gunner, all the springs and delicate latches ordinarily used in army cannon being entirely eliminated. To prevent the troublesome and dangerous jumping back of the gun when fired it is provided with simple liquid recoil cheeks attached to the trunnions and operating very similarly to the common door check. Instead of having the powder charge in a loose wooden bag open to moisture, it is contained, together with its primer, in a hermetically sealed bronze cartridge core, which slips easily into the breech of the gun. After the cartridge has been inserted and the breech closed the projectile carrying the line is inserted in the muzzle and shoved home. This projectile is a cylindrical shot, rounded elliptically at the inner end and having means for securing the shot line at the outer end."

THE TOOTHPICK INDUSTRY.

One County in Maine Supplies Ninety Per Cent of the Product Used in America.

"The fame of American manufacturers may be said to be in everybody's mouth," said the representative of a Maine toothpick factory. "Up in Maine, and particularly in Franklin county's wide stretches of white birch, are the mills that supply 90 per cent of the toothpicks used in this country."

"Poplar wood is sometimes used; but the white birch, on account of its pliability and forest odor, gives a practical monopoly to Maine forests. During the spring over 100 men are employed on machines each of which can clip out almost a million a day of the sharp wooden slivers that help to keep down dentists' bills."

"What are termed the fancy or orange-wood toothpicks are not made in this country, nor could we duplicate them at four times the price. In the country districts of Spain and Portugal these picks are sharpened like needles and smoothed laboriously by young girls who are paid the meagre sum of five cents a day."

"The Japanese toothpick is probably the best and is in increasing demand. This toothpick is fashioned from very fine reed; and, while delicate and thin as tissue paper, it is stronger and more pliable than our clumsy product."

"My experience teaches that the American habit of chewing a toothpick on the street and elsewhere is decadent. However, without this gratuitous advertising, the demand is constant."—N. Y. Sun.

ORIGIN OF ANIMAL HUMPS.

French Writer Presents a Theory Which Is Interesting Scientific Men Everywhere.

An interesting study of the origin of animal humps, such as are found on the camel, and a comparison with curious lumps that occur on the neck and shoulders of native porters in Madagascar, which appear to have arisen from analogous causes has been made by a French writer, M. Devaux, whose paper on the subject, read originally before the Societe de Biologie, is thus noticed in the Revue Scientifique:

"M. Devaux was struck with the hump found on the back of the neck of Malagasy porters. This class of persons is alone affected, and the origin of the tumors may be quite well determined. They consist of large wens, often three in number, one on the neck and one on each shoulder, and due to traumatism. In fact, the Malagasy porters carry two burdens, of almost equal weight, suspended at the ends of a bamboo pole resting on the shoulder at its middle. They walk thus for days with minimum weights of 40 to 60 kilograms (88 to 132 pounds). They change shoulders when tired (which explains the two humps), and for this purpose they slide the pole (which is greased) over the muscles of the neck. Besides this, the bamboo pole, while resting on the shoulder, is always in contact with the neck, which explains why the middle tumor is the largest."

"The mechanism of the formation of humps in the zebra, the bison, and the dromedary is identical, according to M. Devaux—a curious and interesting analogy. In the zebra and bison the hump is found just at the level of the angle of flexion of the neck on the vertebral column, at the moment when the animal browses—a very pronounced angle, because the neck is relatively short, and the natural tumor, therefore, develops at the exact place where the cellular tissue is compressed by the knotty apophyses of the last cervical vertebrae. In the dromedary the hump in the middle of the back is found at the angle of flexion formed by the vertebral column when the animal kneels, and here also the apophyses form a bony corner which penetrates roughly into the cellular tissue. In all these cases the pressure results in the formation of serous pockets, subcutaneous injury, and the accumulation of serum; only in the animal these wounds are of internal origin, while in man they are external."

"The author should have tried also to give a similar explanation of the double hump of the camel, which is much less easy to understand. . . . The nutritive reserve which would appear, from the standpoint of natural selection, to be the reason for these humps, may possibly be localized in points that other factors have already indicated. In any case the animal's hump is hereditary. May it become so in the case of the Malagasy porters?"

ALARM THAT WORKS WELL.

Any Bright Young Man Can Make One at an Expense of But a Few Cents.

A young man with any mechanical ability can easily make the following electric alarm. It will ring at the hour set, and will keep ringing until the switch is turned off. There is no rolling over for another nap.

The necessary materials are an electric bell, a few feet of annunciator wire, a switch, a dry battery, a left-handed screw of any size wire and thread (it can best be made from one and a half-inch stove bolt), a square piece of Norway iron, say one and a quarter inches by one-eighth inch thick, with a hole tapped out in center for left-hand bolt to fit, and a piece of brass three-quarter inch by two and a half inches. Any piece of spring metal will do if you cannot get brass.

The alarm illustrated is mounted on a neat little box, e, about 15 by 6 inches. It holds eight batteries. Although one is all that is necessary for the alarm, by using several and a switch of several points you can connect with other apparatus.

Screw the bell on box in any desired position. Fasten on switch, the most convenient place being at one end. Place battery inside box. To make circuit connect screw a thin piece of board on back of box at c. Bore a small hole in this exactly same height as center of ring which winds alarm spring on back of clock. Next screw on a small piece of iron, n, over hole, and through this put bolt, k, half its distance.

Screw on board one end of brass piece, s, so it will just touch bolt, k. On the other end of bolt place a small piece of wood three-quarter inch by one and one-quarter inch. Saw a slit across one end to admit alarm ring. A small hole can be bored through the wood and the bolt screwed through, which will hold. Counter-sink head three-eighths inch.

Now wire from one pole of battery to binding post on bell, opposite post on bell to post on switch, point on switch to brass, s, on board, e. Next, wire from iron, n, to battery. Now you are done.

When the alarm goes off the unwinding of the alarm spring screws the bolt against the brass and makes connection. To make a neat job, run wires inside of box, with small nail holes at posts to run through.—E. A. Watson, in American Agriculturist.

A Continual Strain.

Many men and women are constantly subjected to what they commonly term "a continual strain" because of some financial or family trouble. It wears and distresses them both mentally and physically, affecting their nerves badly and bringing on liver and kidney ailments, with the attendant evils of constipation, loss of appetite, sleeplessness, low vitality and despondency. They cannot, as a rule, get rid of this "continual strain," but they can remedy its health destroying effects by taking frequent doses of Green's August Flower. It tones up the liver, stimulates the kidneys, insures healthy bodily functions, gives vim and spirit to one's whole being, and eventually dispels the physical or mental distress caused by that "continual strain." Trial bottle of August Flower, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists.—W. T. Brooks.

Healthy Mothers.

Mothers should always keep in good bodily health. They owe it to their children. Yet it is no unusual sight to see a mother, with babe in arms, coughing violently and exhibiting all the symptoms of a consumptive tendency. And why should this dangerous condition exist, dangerous alike to mother and child, when Dr. Boschee's German Syrup would put a stop to it at once? No mother should be without this old and tried remedy in the house—for its timely use will promptly cure any lung, throat or bronchial trouble in herself or her children. The worst cough or cold can be speedily cured by German Syrup, so can hoarseness and congestion of the bronchial tubes. It makes expectoration easy, and gives instant relief and refreshing rest to the cough-racked consumptive. New trial bottles, 25c; large size 75c. At all druggists.—W. T. Brooks.

A GRAND POPULAR PAGEANT.

Including Oriental Spectacles and Historic and Pyrotechnic Displays.

The Great Adam Forepaugh and Sells Brothers' United Shows, whose holiday days at Paris is fixed for Thursday, Sept. 23, invite general and critical attention to their new feature free street parade. Besides the standard gay, glittering and spectacular pageant offerings characteristic of the bigger circuses, there are announced uncommon pompous and historical additions, among which the Oriental and military sections will command unusual attention and are striking innovations. The former is a regally mastodontic and rich reproduction of the recent gorgeous State Durbar at Delhi, in which the native princes, potentates and other notabilities of all India received and did homage to the British Viceroy, making the occasion one of indescribably ostentatious and lavish display of priceless jewels and costumes. The show in question has the huge elephants, superb horses, costly trappings, people and paraphernalia requisite to appropriately perpetuate the event. In the military section of the parade will be found matter of unusual and striking historical interest; our country's martial progress, from Bunker Hill to Santiago, being illustrated and symbolized by the appearance of representatives, armed and costumed exactly as were the heroes who fought under Washington, Scott, Taylor, Lee, Grant and Miles. After the morning parade a free display of Japanese daylight fireworks will be given on the show grounds, during which, discharged from thundering mortars, will float, sail and dive skyward the huge and most strangely grotesque similitudes of fabulous monsters, dragons, sprites and Arabian Nights' fantasies, accompanied by pyrotechnic rainbows and wonderful wreaths of smoke.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT.
ALTON B. PARKER.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT.
HENRY G. DAVIS. of West Virginia.

FOR CONGRESS—
HON. SOUTH TRIMBLE, of Franklin County

FOR APPELLATE JUDGE, JUDGE JAMES E. CANTRILL. of Scott County.

THE opening of the Democratic campaign in Indiana by John W. Kern, the party's nominee for the Governorship, will not serve to make Mr. Fairbanks sleep any the sounder. The audience, in its number and enthusiasm, the character of the speeches delivered, the evidence of thorough organization and the disappearance of the old lines of separation between former "Free Silver" and "Gold Bug" Democrats are all indicative that Mr. Taggart and his lieutenants have already succeeded in effecting an organization that will result in a Democratic victory in November. Of the 20,000 sound-money Democratic votes cast for McKinley and Roosevelt in 1900, fully 90 per cent. will go to Parker and Davis this year, and the Republican party is in no shape to stand a difference of 36,000 votes in the final summing up.

PHYSICIANS recommend Meier's Unfermented Grape Juice for convalescents. Hill & Brannon sell it.

MR. BABCOCK is Chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, and, as such, is expected to be more conversant with conditions affecting the make-up of the next House of Representatives than with the Presidential situation. For that reason the following statement made by him to the Washington correspondent of a New York paper may rightly be regarded as significant:

"There is no use in saying black is white. As the situation stands to-day, the indications are that the Republicans will elect the President and lose the House."

As Mr. Babcock has never been more than half right on any subject that he has been known to discuss, the latter half of his statement will be accepted without question. The former half will be disproved in the early part of November.

WHISKY.—3-year-old Anderson county, $3 per gallon. GEO. T. LYONS.

MR. HILL'S announcement of his intention to retire from politics on January 1 of next year, and his purpose, in case of Democratic success, to accept no appointment, State or National, robs the Republican press of a pleasing fiction regarding his desire to succeed "Raisuli alive or dead" John Hay.

FOUND.—On streets of Paris, a pair of nose glasses. Owner can get same by proving property.

A NEGRO teacher in Alabama was beaten into insensibility by a mob of his own race which he was endeavoring to induce to go to work. The effects of the teachings of the Northern press that higher education and industrial advancement are to be obtained by the negro without work are beginning to make themselves felt.

For Seed Wheat, Seed Rye and Timothy seed, the best of Jellico Coal, Kentucky and Blue Gem and Cannel coals see Stuart & Woodford, opposite L. & N. freight depot.

REPUBLICAN organs are pretending to be happy over a pretended report that Tom Taggart has notified Judge Parker that his defeat is certain. If it is so easy as that for the Republicans to manufacture their own happiness there is no excuse for any Republican unhappiness in this world.

SCHOOL BOOKS.—Attention is directed to the advertisement in another column of school books, which are now on sale by Mrs. W. A. Johnson.

Another Old Citizen Dies.

Mrs. Margaret Todd McClintock, the wife of the late Mr. James McClintock, passed away early Wednesday morning at her residence on South Main. Mrs. McClintock was born 81 years ago at the old Todd homestead, the house now owned by Mr. James Hughes, on the Georgetown pike. She was one of our oldest citizens and had been in poor health for some time. She had been a consistent member of the Second Presbyterian church for 64 years. She was a most excellent woman, loved and esteemed by all who knew her. She was a devoted mother, and none realize this like her children, for to them, like to all of us, there is no name just as sweet as that of mother. A good woman has passed from among us only to take the last quiet sleep of the righteous, after living beyond the three-score and ten, the allotted time.

She is survived by two sons, John J. McClintock and James D. McClintock, and three daughters, Mrs. Lizzie Croxton, Mrs. Geo. Judy and Mrs. Arch Paxton.

The funeral services will be held this (Friday) afternoon, at the grave in Paris cemetery, at 4:30 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Dr. E. H. Rutherford, assisted by Elder Carey Morgan.

The pall-bearers are: James McClure, Douglas Thomas, Jos. Davis, Geo. M. Edgar, J. T. Vansant and Jos. M. Hall.

A Pretty Wedding.

Although a very quiet affair, the wedding of Mr. Bowen Tate and Miss Mary Webb Gass, at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Gass, on Pleasant street, at high noon, Tuesday, was one of the prettiest of the season.

The house was decorated with ferns, white clematis intermingled. The ceremony was performed by their pastor, Rev. Dr. E. H. Rutherford. The bride looked very pretty, gown in white Paris muslin, the waist trimmed in Duchess lace bertha, the skirt with one ruffle and wide tucks, carrying a bouquet of white China-asters.

Only the immediate families were present. After the ceremony a delicious lunch was served. The bride then changed her dress to one of Scotch gray mixture, with very becoming hat to match. The happy couple left for their future home, Denver, Col., on the 3:30 train being followed to the station by a number of young lady friends, who showered them with rice, and wishing the popular couple that their future life would be a bright and happy one.

No better tonic for women and children can be found than Meier's Unfermented Grape Juice. For sale by Hill & Brannon.

The Confederate Reunion.

The Confederate soldiers of Montgomery and surrounding counties held a reunion in the beautiful woodland of Col. Thomas Johnson, near Mt. Sterling, on Wednesday. About 10 o'clock, the veterans present marched to the gate leading into the grounds, headed by a brass band, with an old battle flag waving, to welcome Col. Johnson, now in his 93rd year, and escorted him to the stand. Hon. H. B. Kinsolving, of Mt. Sterling, delivered the address of welcome. Addresses by Rev. E. O. Guerrant, Col. Leland Hathaway and other veterans and Col. A. T. Wood and Col. J. Smith Hurt, two Federal Colonels, were made, which made the meeting a great love feast. Dinner, consisting of everything good to eat, and enough for thousands more, was set before the crowd of two thousand people. The beautiful daughters of Col. Johnson, assisted by more than a half hundred fair women, did all in their power to make those present enjoy themselves, and one and all pronounce the meeting a grand success. Among those present from Bourbon were: Col. E. F. Clay, W. C. Goodman, A. T. Forsyth, Dr. C. J. Clarke, John D. Penn, John R. Moreland, E. P. Clarke, R. L. Dejarney, Capt. J. R. Rogers, C. H. Will Enforce Curfew Law.

Police Judge John J. Riley, of Lexington, is determined to enforce the new Curfew Law in that city, and has issued orders to the Chief of Police to instruct his men to arrest all children of tender age who are caught on the streets after night. He believes the enforcement of this law will have a decidedly wholesome effect and lessen the amount of crime among juvenile offenders, who are becoming more numerous daily.

It would surely be a good thing for Paris if such a law was in force here. We do not believe there is any town in Kentucky where children are allowed to run the streets after night like they do in Paris.

I HAVE just received a complete line of the celebrated Bissells Carpet Sweepers.

IN GRANDMA'S DAY.

Grandma shakes her head and says Things are really something shocking.
In these awful modern days Girls can hardly darn a stocking.
While her knitting needles fly She will tell us how she hung All the washing out to dry—Washed it, too—when she was young.

Grandma sighs and says a girl Nowadays is always fadding.
Only happy in a whirl,
Here and there forever gadding.
No piano did she play,
But about her work she sung—Took her exercise that way, In the days when she was young.

Grandma says that furbelows Girls in her time weren't inclined to.
Thought of something else than beads, Things worth while they gave their mind to.
Grandpa laughs and just makes game.
"Well," says he, "it was among Them myself. They're much the same Now as when we both were young."

The Hermit

A Story of the Wilderness

By CHARLES CLARK MUNN

Author of "Pocket Island," "Uncle Terry," and "Rockhaven."

(Copyright, 1903, by Lee and Shepard.)

CHAPTER II.—CONTINUED.

"Levi," he said, "what do you say; Is it so on, or stay?"

"We've got to stay!" came the resolute answer; "thar ain't a campin' spot within five miles either up or down the Mooshorn, and it's too late to cut one out!" And once more he began work.

As for Martin, he was inwardly calm. He had not quite recovered from the previous night's experience and the queer footprints, however, and yet it did not occur to him that that had any connection with the cause of the doctor's fright. And yet, it might have.

Then another thought came, and it added to his fears. They had started early and paddled a good 20 miles up an almost currentless stream; on either bank lay an impassable wilderness, much of it swampy. No hunter or trapper stealing along ahead had been sighted that day, and if this wild man the doctor had seen was he who was prowling around their tent the night before, how had he reached this spot?

But Martin had already decided upon his own course, and though startled somewhat by the doctor's fright, he now pulled himself together once more and attempted to calm his frightened comrade.

"It may have been some hairy-faced, old trapper that you saw, doctor," he said finally, "and they are harmless.
If it was, he will show up by and by,
and hang around till we offer him a drink. I've met them many times here in the wilderness before, and a little good rum secures their friendship for life, so don't worry." And Martin resumed his cutting of boughs.

When supper was over and night had quite shut them in about the camp-fire, conversation was resumed.
"Are there many Indians wild in these woods?" queried the doctor, glancing up to where the zone of firelight outlined the entrance to the old tote-road; "I thought they were all civilized."

"So they are," replied Martin, not waiting for Levi, "and that's why some of them adopt white men's methods of getting what they want."

"But the face I saw belonged to a white man," interjected the doctor, who had not recovered from it, "and it wore a most demonic look, with grizzly hair all around and a mat of it on top."

"That may be," returned Martin,
"and so would any old trapper look when you saw him. They never shave or get a hair cut from one year's end to another, and all look alike—ragged, hairy and dirty. I've met them often, and, as I told you, they are all harmless and love rum. If you saw one—which I doubt—he is like all the rest, and by now is fast asleep up back of here in the bushes."

With that Martin arose, for it was time to turn in, glanced first at the starlit sky and then up at the opening in the forest back of the tent. At that moment Levi chanced to throw a handful of birch boughs on the dying fire, and as the flames flashed in response and the zone of light widened, Martin caught the full view of a hideous human face peeping out from behind a stunted spruce.

One moment only he saw the gray hairy visage; the next it had disappeared.

CHAPTER III.
THE WILD MAN.

The wilderness has many moods—grave, gay, grand and mysterious.
The morning melody of the birds in spring, the laughter of brooks deep hidden in impassable thickets, the loud-voiced rapids leaping down rock-walled gorges, the fir-clad mountains that shut one in, the bending spruce and cedar mirrored in placid lakes—each and all have their own mood and leave their own particular impress on one's feelings.

Full well Martin Frisbie knew all wilderness moods, for he had met them many times. Yet, at the moment he saw this vanishing apparition, not to save all his wealth could he have pursued it into the darkness one rod. But he had good command of himself, and, uttering not a word, he turned and heaped more fuel on the fire. Then he sat down beside it.
"Why don't you turn in?" exclaimed the doctor, who had already entered the tent.

"I will, presently; I want a smoke first." And Martin coolly filled and lit his pipe.

Then he heaped the fire with fuel as if ruddy flames were a protection, and lying down between it and the stream, and resting head on hand and elbow, he covertly watched the opening in the woods.

Presently Jean, the doctor's guide, yawned, picked up his blanket, wrapped himself in it and crept under his canoe. And now Martin arose, peeped into the tent, satisfied himself that the doctor was asleep, and returned to the fire.

"Levi," he said in a whisper, "the doctor was right. We are watched by a queer-looking man. I saw him a little while ago, just back of the tent."

The two looked at each other a moment in silence and then at the dark opening in the forest.

"Well," whispered Martin again,
"what was it?"

For answer Levi cautiously but quickly stepped to one side of the tent, knelt, stooped, and laid his ear to the ground. For full five minutes he lay prone, then beckoned to Martin to join him. He did so, and as the crackle of the fire died out, Martin caught the sound of a stealthy tread, at wide intervals, and slowly receding into the forest. Finally that ceased, and only the low murmur of the Branch broke the utter stillness.

Then the two arose and returned to the fire, now only a faint glow of embers.
"Well," whispered Martin once more, looking at his guide, "what was it?"

Levi shook his head.
"It sounded like a bear creeping through the brush; they go that way."

"It wasn't a bear I saw."

"I know it," replied Levi once more,
"and that's what beats me."

For a long time the two watched each other, listening to the faint voice of the stream, alert and keen lest any sound escape them. At last Martin spoke.

"Levi," he said, "we have spent many weeks in this wilderness together, and I know I can trust you.
What I saw is a mystery, and we may solve it and we may not, but until we do, neither the doctor nor Jean must know we have been watched by this strange creature. As I told you, it's my friend's first visit to the woods, and timid as he is, if once he learned what I saw, no power could keep him here longer than it would take to get out. I shall try to convince him that he saw a rock or stump, and you must help do it." Levi nodded.

"I think I'll turn in now," continued Martin, "and you may as well."

But his faithful guide only put more fuel on the fire and, taking Martin's rifle, sat down beside it.

"I'll keep watch a spell," he said;
"It's just as well."

When Martin, awakened by the first notes of the inevitable bird concert, emerged from the tent, the fire was still smoldering, and Levi rolled in his blanket fast asleep beside it.
Without awakening him he picked up the rifle and carefully entered the old log road. Step by step he followed it, slowly and like a true woodsman, ever watching for signs of man or beast.
The doctor's tracks, both going and coming, were plain, and when the path turned down to the stream, his rod was found; but—although Martin looked well about, not a solitary one could be found of the dozen or more trout claimed to have been caught.
Martin saw the stump back of which the doctor had thrown them, saw his tracks on the soft bank—grass trampled, bushes broken—and that was all.
Then he looked across the stream, and there, too, was the boulder from behind which this wild man had glared.

Cautiously, and peering often up and down the stream and into the thick forest, now gray with morning light, he crossed, stepping from rock to rock just out of the water. Back of the boulder the rotting leaves showed fresh disturbance, and from its side bits of damp moss had been scraped.
Then he noted the faint forest sign of leaves that had been broken upon or turned over, leading up the brook and beneath the overhanging fir. Only a few rods he followed them, for the undergrowth was more than dense, and then he returned to the crossing.
Here, on a bit of sandy bank, washed up by the spring freshet, he saw that same footprint once more—a huge, horrible track, half brute, half human,
with the heel mark of a man's foot round and deep, and the toe mark of a panther's claws! Involuntarily he cocked his rifle, looked about, and listened.

Only the morning light, now bright and clear, the low note of the stream at his feet, the song of birds!

He stooped and measured those claw prints with a twig as Levi had. A full inch in depth they were, with a spread of at least five inches—wider than the largest human foot.

Then he turned back to where the doctor had stood and fished. Here, unobserved at first, and distinct in the doctor's tracks, Martin found the claw prints again.

Once again he listened long, looking all about and half expecting to see that face in the dense undergrowth.
Then, as the intangible menace grew upon him, he turned and almost ran down the bushy path to the camp.

Levi only was up, and he was just starting a fire. Without a word Martin beckoned him to follow, and together they returned to the puzzling tracks. Like an Indian trailing his enemy in the pathless forest, so did Levi now follow and examine those footprints. All about where the doctor stood he traced them, then back and up the old wood road to where a fallen tree blocked the way, while Martin watched his every motion. And here that keen woodsman, peering into these interlacing boughs, suddenly reached up to one, and detaching something, held it up to the light. It was a long, white hair!

With intense interest Martin looked at that somewhat curly token of a human scalp which his guide held aloft, taking it between thumb and finger, quietly wound it into a tiny coil and placed it in his pocket-book.

"Well," he said at last, "what is it?"

"It's a critter that walks on two legs," responded Levi, slowly shaking his head, "but them tracks is curus.
I never knowed an Injun with white hair, either."

To Martin this was a new possibility.

"He come down this path," continued Levi, as he slowly led the way back, half stooping, the better to watch for tracks. "n' he went back the same way, steppin' strong, n' on his hind legs."

"It's a human being, then," put in Martin, as they reached the stream again and halted.

"Yes," it's a human, mebbe," admitted Levi once more, shaking his head, "only them tracks ain't."

For a moment Martin pondered.
And in that instant a dilemma confronted him. To obey his keen hunter's instinct and follow this strange creature into the wilderness, he could not with timid Dr. Sol on his hands; neither did he dare even to let his old-time friend know what a strange creature had watched them. And suppose he were alone, with his trusted and faithful guide, and they should follow and come upon this mysterious animal—this possible beast or possible man—what then?

"Levi," he said suddenly, his mind made up, "we must get out of here as soon as we can pack and start. And mind you, not one word or hint to Jean or the doctor."

Jean was busy cooking breakfast, and Dr. Sol watching and sniffing the pleasant odor of the frying ham, when Martin and Levi reached camp.

"Well, did you see the wild man?" queried the doctor.

"No," answered Martin, smiling,
"but we saw the big gray rock that scared you, and found your rod where you dropped it. I think a mink carried your trout off—that is, if you caught any."

CHAPTER IV.

THE MYSTERY OF THE WILDER-NESS.

Martin's first impulse had been to pursue and solve the identity of this half-human, half-brute creature who had peeped into their campfire circle; the next, and kinder one, to avoid alarming the timid doctor and pay no heed to it, but go on as planned. But resolving and doing are wide-apart impulses, not always reconciled, and although Martin was not one whose mind turned like a weather-vane, yet while he was cheerfully deceiving Dr.
Sol, his thoughts were away in the shadowy forest, pursuing an ogreish creature. Neither did his will banish this mystery in the least, for when breakfast was disposed of, tent struck, canoes loaded, and they paddled away up the Mooshorn, its clutch was still upon him. All that bright morning, while they pushed up the winding and almost currentless stream, now shadowed by spruce and then broadening into long and narrow lakelets, faintly rippled and sparkling in the sunlight, his spectral hand reached out from every shadowy opening. Over and over again had he and Levi discussed this strange visitor, only to fail of reaching any tangible solution or solve any part of the mystery, and when noon came, and they halted where a short rapid compelled a carry, Martin had hard work to keep from making a clean breast to the doctor of all he had seen and imagined. Then, as if to drive him to confession, here at this landing, he came upon two more mysterious discoveries.

They had decided to cook dinner here, and as usual, while the guides prepared it, Martin and the doctor tried for trout. Both made a few casts in the same pool below the rapids, and then Martin, leaving his friend, started up the path that led around the rapids to try in another pool. With more thought for tracks than trout he walked slowly, half sloping and scanning every spot where one might show. None were found until the path ended at the stream once more, and here, on a bit of sandy margin, and as if the creature had stepped out of the water, were the same broad and well-marked claw prints. Then, turning back, now that he had found the trail, and, with hunter's cunning, locating a dozen others, though so faintly defined that only the prints of sharp claws were visible in the hard soil, or a bit of moss scratched from a stone showed where the animal had stepped. All pointed down-stream and were made as the others were—by a creature walking upright!

Then, leaving the path and crowding through the undergrowth to an eddy pool in the rapids, Martin made a cast. It scored, and then another and still another speckled beauty was hooked and reeled in, and the keen zest of time, place and sport had, for the moment, obliterated all other thought, when, in stepping from one rock to another above, he saw, wedged between them, a curious bit of driftwood, one end of which seemed to grin at him. It was that that caught his eye, and stooping, he pulled it from between the rocks and found it to be the handle of a broken paddle, with the knob carved into semblance of a human skull. So realistic had this unknown artist tried to be, that he had inserted a row of small, catlike teeth in the skull's mouth and dyed the eyes and nose sockets red. The sun and rain had almost removed this, but the teeth still held in place. It was a curious bit of flotsam, evidently tossed up and caught between the rocks during some freshet, and then left to bleach in sun and storm. It had seemingly been so exposed for more than one year, for it was almost white. It did not appeal to Martin as having any connection with the mystery he had come upon, but merely as the long-ago handiwork of some eccentric trapper or hunter thus killing time. It was a curio, but when he returned to the canoes at call to dinner, he said nothing, but quietly tucked it into the bow of his canoe.

When dinner was over, the doctor, who wanted to fish most of the time, returned to his pool, Jean began washing the dishes, and then a look and nod from Martin to Levi were enough, and together they walked up the path.
"Our friend of last night came down this way not long ago," asserted Martin, quietly, pointing to the best-defined tracks on the stream's bank, "and now can you tell me when?"

Levi knelt and studied them well.
Then glancing up to the sun, and back to where one track just emerged from the shadow of an outgrowing spruce bough, he moved up to that and again bent low.

"Yesterday; 'n' late in the afternoon at that," he answered.

And it was fully ten miles of almost impassable wilderness—that is, by land—to where they had encamped the night before!

For a few moments Martin looked at his guide, and then at those tracks in silence.

"It's beyond me," he said at last, and the temptation to tell the doctor all, and then return to where they had camped and pursue this strange creature, was strong upon him.

"If it's a sane human being," he continued, "he would have made himself known to us last night; if some half-insane old hermit or trapper, even then I think he would. Even if it was a wild man, the sight of us and our fire would also have drawn some cry or expression of human kinship from him.
But to look at us in grim silence from out the darkness, and then steal away like some hunted animal, was uncanny."

WANTED TO BE LET ALONE.

Lord Salisbury Wished Signboard Pointing to His Retreat Done Away With.

The chateau of Lord Salisbury was at Beaulieu, France, and that he might have peace and rest there he once made a quaint request of the mayor of Villefranche. The house stood on high, well-wooded ground and was approached by carriage from the old Corniche road. The inaccessibility of the position and consequent quiet and peace pleased the premier greatly. The gardens were so large and the gate kept by a Cerberus so stern that the most enterprising British or American tourist found little to repay his curiosity after his climb.
When Lord Salisbury first took possession of La Bastide the maire of Ville-franche, M. Ballonais, called upon him to bid him welcome and hospitably assured him that any wish his lordship might express would, if possible, be instantly gratified by himself and his councilors.

"Then I will take you at your word," replied the premier. "I wish much that the new signboard you have put up on the road leading here, marked 'Avenue Salisbury,' be taken away."
"But we put it up," stammered the maire, "in order to let people find their way to your villa."

"Ah!" sighed Lord Salisbury, "I see so many people at home and should like most of them to lose their way to La Bastide."

The hint was taken.

California Missions.

In the beginning of things in California, the padres built their missions after this style—low, plastered, tile-roofed and buff-colored, with arched doorways and long arcades, and perhaps at one corner a belfry with one or more bells. They adapted their Spanish ideas to the meager materials, unskilled labor, and the needs of a newly discovered country. Perhaps they built wiser and better than they knew, for, after more than a century, many of the missions stand in a fair state of preservation. As the padres built, so built the Spanish settlers that came after them, and as late as 50 years ago the pueblo of Los Angeles squatted in adobe simplicity under its palms and pepper trees.—From "Mission Architecture," by Bertha Smith, in Four-Track News.

Clever Western Cattle.

Western cattle raisers have noticed in recent years a wonderful illustration of animal intelligence and instinct.
The cattle of former days were of the long-horned kind, and when a herd was threatened with an attack by wolves, the calves were placed in the middle of the bunch and the older ones formed themselves into a circle, all facing outward. Now that the cattle are mostly hornless, they place the calves in the middle, as in old times, but face inward themselves, thus preserving their hoofs to the wolves.—

LIVE STOCK, CROP, ETC.

The 1904 tobacco crop in Kentucky is estimated to be about the same as that of 1903, which was 12,000,000 pounds short as compared with that of former years.

Mr. Frank Chinn, of Scott, sold to Will Carrick a farm of 110 acres, located on the New Oxford pike, about three and one-half miles from Georgetown. The price paid was $87.40 per acre.

Robert Reeves, of Christian county, is probably the largest wheat grower in Kentucky this year. Reports at the State Agricultural Department are that he raised 26,000 bushels and that he has refused $1.15 for it.

W. S. and R. A. Beasley, of Garrard, sold to Joe Bales, of Richmond, for Schwartzchild & Sulzberger, 164 export cattle, averaging 1,535 pounds, at $5.25.

At Williamstown, Ky., J. C. Brown made the largest deal in leaf tobacco Wednesday that has ever been made in Grant county. He sold the Scott & Hall purchase of 270,000 pounds to June W. Gayle, of Owenton, at 20 cents per pound.

The usual way in which Clarke & Co., one of Paris' most reliable druggists, sell Mi-o-na, emphasizes the fact that this remedy possesses unusual merits. The guarantee that they give with every package is plain—"If Mi-o-na does not cure you of dyspepsia, we will return your money."

Fine Bourbon County STOCK FARM FOR SALE.

As Administrator of G. G. White, deceased, and agent for his heirs, I will, at 11:30 o'clock a. m., on Monday, September 5th, 1904, offer at public sale, in front of the Court-House, in Paris, Ky., the fine Bourbon County farm known as the Gilt Edge Stock Farm, the property of the late G. G. White, situated on the Paris & North Middletown Turnpike, near the City limits of Paris, and containing 547½ acres of land.

This is a No. 1 Bourbon County farm. It is all under cultivation except about 150 acres of virgin soil, which is heavily set in bluegrass, making splendid grazing and is unexcelled for tobacco.

Plenty of stock water in dryest season. Has benefit of creek boundary, but no creek included in survey. No part of farm overflows. Creek line furnishes unfauling stock water and saves fencing.

The farm residence is one of the best in Bourbon County, being a large 2½ story brick house, colonial in style, with front veranda supported by massive columns which rise to the eaves of the house. Rooms and halls spacious and well lighted Cellars, large, light and dry. Interior finish largely in hardwood.

Two first class cisterns at residence, and all necessary outhouses.

Splendid stock barn with large number of box stalls, and good training track. Paddock with good stallion stables adjoining barn, and an inexhaustible artesian well at the barn door. Everything in fact for a first-class stock farm.

Also, A GOOD TWO-STORY FRAME RESIDENCE

The Paris Distillery Company has for years past paid $300.00 per year for privilege of pumping water from Stoner Creek, and $300.00 per year for depositing offal from cattle pens in the natural basin near the Distillery. The purchaser can probably continue these privileges—either or both—indeinitely, adding $500.00 to annual income from the farm.

This farm is well suited for the large handling of cattle because of proximity of distillery.

I will first offer the farm in two parts and then as a whole, reserving the right to accept or reject any bid.

Division No. 1 contains 271.93 acres, including the brick residence, stock barn, track, and all adjacent improvements, and fronts on the North Middletown pike and extends back to Stoner Creek, and is bounded on one side by G. W. Wyatt, and on the other side by Division No. 2. This tract contains the natural basins in which the distillery deposits offal from cattle pens, paying $300.00 annually for the privilege.

Division No. 2 contains 276.70 acres, bounded by the Distillery property on the North, by the Maysville railroad and Stoner Creek on the West, by Stoner Creek on the South, and by Division No. 1 and Stoner Creek on the East. The frame residence is on this tract, and the Distillery Company pays $300.00 per annum for the privilege of pumping water over this tract from Stoner Creek—an income of $300 per year without injury to the land.

The surveyor's field notes and plat of entire farm and of the above two Divisions may be seen at the Citizens Bank in Paris, Ky.

In event of the farm selling in the above two divisions the right to use the passway from Division No. 2 over the land of Mrs. Frank Fithian out to the Maysville pike, opposite the G. G. White Distillery, in East Paris, will be included in conveyance of Division No. 2.

Purchaser has privilege of seeding the coming fall, and full possession given March 1, 1905.

TERMS.—One third cash on March 1, 1905, when deed is made; one-third March 1, 1906; one-third March 1, 1907—deferred payments to bear 6 per cent. interest from March 1, 1905.

The purchaser will not be required to give security for the deferred payments but will be required to give security for the first payment due March 1, 1905, and his notes, without surety for the deferred payments, to secure which a lien will be reserved in the deed. Purchaser may pay more than one-third of the purchase money if preferred.

For further information call on or address the undersigned in Paris, Ky. WM. MYALL.

What MITCHELL Says

Lots of good people have quit making Ice Cream. They just send to me and get better than they can make.

I have been furnishing quite a number of people with Orange Ice for receptions. They have all been pleased.

Some buy my Peach Ice Cream, and I claim it is the best ever sold in Paris.

All the Soda drinks I make are strictly fine and you will do well to call at my store when you are dry.

I am the whole thing when it comes to fine confections. The girls all say so.

Yours truly,

C. B. MITCHELL.
